

IR Leader receives top students - 17 /Oct/ 2006

Islamic Revolution Leader Ayatollah Sayed Ali Khamenei received a group of top university students Tuesday and listened to the remarks of 13 candidate speakers about the national and academic affairs.

Ayatollah Khamenei underlined efforts to deepen religious thinking and called it a core principle of the Islamic System, adding the Islamic Republic in light of religious thinking, has set it a goal to revive spirituality as the lost element from human life besides efforts to resolve material questions.

Ayatollah Khamenei said because of the same approach, the Islamic System has been challenged by the world tyrants and bullies, vowing however that it will continue to take step in the path of the goal despite all the oppositions.

Ayatollah Khamenei said that the pace of growth of burgeoning revolutionary forces has outpaced their withering and underscored the role of the youth in progress of the system. "Revolutionary aspirations will grow across the world naturally and the Islamic System more and more wins sympathy and intellectual support of nations day by day," the IR Leader said.

The IR Leader described the prospects of the Islamic Revolution as bright, adding no doubt the significance of the Islamic Republic of Iran in international equations will reach a fateful point to gain which goal a zealous, lively, industrious and faithful young generation is a condition which relies on Islamic teachings.
