

Supreme Leader Urges Government Officials to Resolve Problems of Kermanshah Province - 20 /Oct/ 2011

In a meeting with cabinet members in Kermanshah province, Ayatollah Khamenei the Supreme Leader of the Islamic Revolution called on government officials to pay special attention to resolving the problems of Kermanshah province and reiterated: "Good things have been done in this province, but there is a long way to go before we reach the point the honorable people of Kermanshah deserve."

His Eminence said that resolving the problems of Kermanshah province requires dedication and extraordinary work on the part of government officials. He reiterated: "It is necessary to step into the arena of rendering services to the dear people of this province with full determination and dynamism so that the situation of this province is improved noticeably."

Ayatollah Khamenei said that it is necessary for government officials to focus on their responsibilities towards the people and added: "The government should assign a special task force to constantly follow up the bills passed for Kermanshah province. And by focusing on the role of the representative of the Vali-e Faqih in Kermanshah province, the Governor and MPs of the province should seriously follow up the implementation of these bills so that the situation of the people of the province is improved considerably."

His Eminence said that unemployment is the main problem in Kermanshah province and called on government officials to make intensified efforts in order to resolve this problem. "It is necessary to resolve the issue of unemployment and to eliminate the major concern of the people and youth of the province by laying the necessary groundwork - particularly, by attracting private investments and creating the necessary infrastructure in agricultural, industrial and other sectors."

Addressing executive officials of the country, the Supreme Leader of the Islamic Revolution said: "Continue your services with this motivation until the last day of your term and do not let your efforts be affected by the concern that your term is coming to an end."
